

The Hebrew University, Jerusalem, Classics Department

The Classics Department wishes to announce three guest lectures which we will be hosting in May and June this semester:

Tuesday, 21 May 2019, at 18:15 in Room 5411 (near the Dean's Office), at the Faculty of Humanities, Mount Scopus, Jerusalem

Prof. Robert Kaster (Princeton University) will lecture on

Hunting a Textual Wild Man in 12th Century England

Wednesday, 5 June 2019, at 16:30 in Room 5411 (near the Dean's Office), at the Faculty of Humanities, Mount Scopus, Jerusalem

Prof. Mary Bachvarova (Willamette University) will lecture on

Near Eastern Parallels to Greek Literature: Methodology and Pay-Off

Wednesday, 26 June 2019, at 16:30 in Room 5411 (near the Dean's Office), at the Faculty of Humanities, Mount Scopus, Jerusalem

Prof. Simone Beta (Università di Siena) will lecture on

The Reception of Aristophanes in Italy in the Renaissance

(Please note that Prof. Kaster's lecture will be held on a Tuesday at 18:15, and the lectures of Profs. Bachvarova and Beta will be held on a Wednesday, at 16:30).

For further inquiries contact Donna Shalev donna@mail.huji.ac.il 0546508882. In order to arrange entrance with car into parking area on campus, please contact Meirav Fischer meiravfi@savion.huji.ac.il or Irina Kaminsky irinak@savion.huji.ac.il -- or call 025880287 at least two days in advance. Attendance required for Classics Department students.